

5 Unique (and Delicious) Taco Tuesdays to Check Out in San Diego

There are near endless options for Taco Tuesday spots in San Diego. Looking for a new spot or something a little different? Here we go:

FOR A LUXURY TACO WITH A SOUNDTRACK, TRY....
THE TACO STAND

San Diego's staple taco haven and local favorite, The Taco Stand, has opened in North Park at the corner of 30th and Upas. This the fourth location for the San Diego based brand with a cult-like following. In addition to its mainstay menu of tacos, burritos, and sides, this location also offers several beers on tap, making it a perfect Taco Tuesday choice.

The Taco Stand excels with their handmade corn tortillas made in house daily, fresh ingredients, and tempting sauce bar with delicious salsas, cilantro sauce, and chipotle sauce. The hands-down taco champion is the Al Pastor – rotisserie marinated pork with cilantro, onions, cilantro sauce, and pineapple – for the most flavorful taco you've ever had!

FOR YOU'RE A BEACH DWELLER, TRY...

SANDBAR

If you're in search of delicious tacos in Mission Beach, head in to Sandbar Sports Bar & Grill, located just a few steps from the beach. Not only did Sandbar win award after award for their tacos, but they've got a Sky Bar deck that is the perfect spot to enjoy your Taco Tuesday while sipping on a cocktail or beer. The Best in SD TKO Style tacos are my pick – your choice of meat, including braised carnitas or local white fish, served in irresistible cotija-crusted flour tortillas. Each taco is piled high with beer-brined escabeche slaw, lime crema, spicy guacamole, tobacco onions, chipotle aioli and fried cilantro.

IF YOU'RE A VEGETARIAN, TRY...

DEL SUR MEXICAN CANTINA

South Park's Del Sur Mexican Cantina offers delicious Mexican staples such as hearty burritos, enchiladas and, of course, tacos. It'll be hard not to fill up on the top-notch chips and salsa they bring to their table. The salsa is without a doubt the best I've tried in San Diego. Del Sur's interpretation of the new Jackfruit food trend is a flavorful adobe marinated Jackfruit Tacos with poblano crema and chipotle aioli.
